HONGEONG, MONDAY, MAY 3, 1880. As we hinted the other day, one o the subjects which must have been engaging the attention of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach when he made room for Lord Kimberley in the Colonial Office, was a definition of the position to be occupied by the Colonial Secretary of Hongkong, it seems at first sight a strange thing that the question should be opened, but it is nevertheless one the 8th May, with Malls to and which has been very seriously raised since the arrival of Mr. Marsh. The Europe, vid Naples; to Salgon, Straits | departure of the present Colonial Secretary may form a fit occasion for an expression of opinion upon this matter. Regarding the attitude which H. E. the Governor is credited with having from The usual hours will be observed in closing the first assumed towards the beads of departments here-viz. that he was resolved to stamp out everything like the departmental administration favoured by his predecesors something might be said on both sides. Under certain circumstances, it might be a grave mistake to permit heads of departments to have too much in their power; and close supervision and tight rein might populationally be absolutely necessary. Some heads of departments. might really be benefitted by being laid open to the same slubbing process to which every one under and within reach of them have to submit and then Sir John Pope Hednessy system would work for the good of the miblic and the welfare of the Service. THE U. S. CONSULATE. April 30th.

I have, as you are aware, wholly abstained from any communication whatever with you upon the vexed subject of irregularities in the American Civil Service in China, and it is only because I detect some rather broad shades of injustice towards Mr Lincoln in your leader of the 27th instant, that I now venture momentarily upon the much-ruffled surface of muddy waters. An intrinsic Vencedora. ing officers precluded from reply by rules of official decorum, is impartiality; and hence, it is especially incumbent to shun the injustice of invidious comparison. In this light, the contrast seems broadly drawn in kilograms augar. your presentation of Mr Cheshire, even with the action of the State Department; and one is tempted to ask if, as you intimate, he was "too honest for his position," was he "too honest" to heed the promptings of ambitious zeal? That is the crucial question as between his acts and those of Mr Lincoln.

But as to the attitude of the State Department and the relations of the last-named gentleman to the Executive Government :suggest a former laxity tempting unwary incumbents of office so far away from Washington as China, let us ask why Mr Lincoln should not feel a tinge of envy inspiring a not-ignoble ambition to vie with conspicuous Consuls of, at least, two of the leading Treaty Powers in obtaining commissions to execute contracts for gunboats and or arms on account of the Chinese authorities?

If, then, he did obtain such commission. with the reservation that he should submit it to the approval of his official superiors at Washington, and thereupon hastened to so submit it, and was told by them that they were glad to see that he had inspired so much confidence in the minds of local Chinese officers, instead of considering his acceptance of it blamable; what is the accusation, of his violation of an eath and the forfeiture of his Bonds, but an injustice?

That this is a reliable rendering of what occurred I am assured: and that after Mr Lincoln-for family and other reasons (some of a political character, I suspect, not wholl disconnected with the candidature of a distinguished personage for the office of President, that was foreshadowed at a banquet in plaining this when they asw the constable | the Consulate here just a year ago) -- had determined upon sending his resignation to the President, and, therefore, requested a Member of Congress from Michigan, (being himself therein at the home of his fatherwith his own family), to call upon both the The first defendant admitted a previous President and Secretary of State to ask, as a proper duty, if there was any matter of comattempting to obtain money under false | plaint existing against him, who was told explicitly that there was not and that the resignation would be accepted for reasons of policy of a general character which were actuating similar changes of somewhat extended scope in China, Japan, Siam, &c. THE DUKE OF GENOA IN HANKOW. (N. C. D. News.)

The Vittor Pisani, with H.R.H. the Duke of Genoa on board, arrived at Hankow on the 17th, the water having risen sufficiently to admit of her crossing the bar at Olyphant Island. On the coming in sight the Consular Body and Mr White, Commissioner of Customs, assembled on the Bund, to the great admiration of a crowd of Celestials. who appeared much impressed with the splendour of the barlarians. Directly the Vistor Pisani reached her anchorage our representatives hastened on board to offer H.R.H. and his officers any service they might perchance need, and were received most courteously, the usual Bishop Zanoli followed, receiving a salute of nine guns on his departure, and this finished the proceedings of the first

On the 18th, H.R.H. was present at mass at the Roman Catholic Cathedral, and was visited subsequently by the Taotai and received many of the residents who called on board, honouring Mr and Mrs Alabaster by dining with them in the evening at the Consulate.

The 19th was spent in visiting the towns of Hankow and Hanyang, and in the evening H.R.H. entertained Bishop Zanoli, the Consular Body, the Customs representatives, and a number of residents at a dinner on board the Vittor Pisani. On the 20th, the Vittor Pisani moved over to Wuchang, the Hauh-tai at once calling on board with the compliments of the Viceroy. This visit was returned by Count Candiani, A.D.C. to H.R.H. who with Mr Haas, who had accompanied H.R.H. from Shanghai, visited the Viceroy and Hauh-tai, being well received by both. Later H.E. the Viceroy called on board the Vittor Pisani and subsequently received H.R.H. at his Yamen, the streets from the landing to its entrance being lined with troops and everything possible being done to show the Duke of Genoa the respect due to his rank.

The day was very wet, but we understand H.R.H. was much pleased with his visit, and it is creditable to the Chinese authorities that they appear to recognize the obligations of civilised society, and are now ready to do what is incumbent on them on occasions like the present. In the evening the Vittor Pisani returned to Hankow, to enable H.R.H. to be present with his officers a a dinner given by the community in their honour at the nex Club-house.

The rain had fortunately ceased, and from the landing to the Cinh long strings of red, white and green lanterns made a most effective display, blending with the foliage of the willows which line the bund and streets; and at the building Mr Price had been equally successful. At the entrance was a tent porch of red, white and green cloth, surmounted by the shield and crown of Savov. The passages, staircase and landing were filled with a beautiful collection of peoples, azaleas, and other Chinese flowers, interspersed with porcelain vases, and the library, a room of 70 feet in length, had been converted into a very fine banqueting hall by the walls being lined, like the porch, with red, white and green cloth, with shields and crowns over the doors and behind H. R. H.'s seat, the whole being simple but in admirable taste and consequently extremely effective. The long dinner table was elegantly adorned with a profusion of flowers. and the trophies of former Race Meetings made a handsome show along the centre. Punctual at the time appointed H. H. H. and his officers were received at the landing by Mr White, Commissioner some three weeks, H.R.H. during the of Customs, and Mr Blair, Chairman of the Municipal Council, and conducted to the Club, where the remaining members of the Committee General Shepard U.
